

Monday, October 03, 2011

Strange Bedfellows?

Paul Manata offers an interesting assessment of the “transcendental argument for God” (TAG).

In a blog post of his titled Do All Men Know That God Exists? Manata writes:

 TAG, as I understand it, is something like the Osama Bin Laden of apologetic arguments. It's been bombarded with rockets and is hiding out in the caves, licking its wounds.

Would someone please tell Sye Ten Bruggencate? If I try to, he'll probably accuse me of indigestion or dysentery (when in fact, I'm quite healthy).

by Dawson Bethrick

Labels: Paul Manata, TAG

posted by Bahnsen Burner at 5:00 AM